

Through The Looking Glass

Providing Purposeful Regulation

95th NASAA ANNUAL CONFERENCE

September 9–11, 2012 | Hotel Del Coronado | Coronado, California

NORTH AMERICAN SECURITIES ADMINISTRATORS ASSOCIATION, INC.

From the Conference Chair

Dear Conference Attendees:

Thank you for joining us in Coronado, California, the Crown City, for the North American Securities Administrators Association's 95th Annual Conference.

The focus of our three-day conference is innovation, investor protection and the road to economic recovery. Our three panel discussions — Occupy Regulation, The Future Course of Capital Formation, and Politics & Policy: What the Election Means for Main Street and Wall Street — will sharpen this focus from different angles.

Each panel will bring together experts to provide you with useful insights that can be beneficial as you address the opportunities and challenges that lie ahead. This year's conference also includes open forum discussions with NASAA Section Committees on important issues related to broker-dealers, investment advisers, corporation finance, enforcement, Web CRD/IARD, and investor education.

In addition to attending the conference, I also encourage you to soak in the rich history and culture of Coronado Island and nearby San Diego, California's second largest city and the eighth largest in the United States. A world of adventure awaits, from the Gaslamp Quarter across the bay in the historic heart of San Diego to the shimmering sands along Coronado's Silver Strand.

I look forward to seeing you in Coronado!

Irving L. Faught
Oklahoma Securities Commission
2012 Annual Conference Chair

From the NASAA President

Dear NASAA Members and Guests:

Welcome, and thank you for joining us in Coronado for the 95th Annual Conference of the North American Securities Administrators Association.

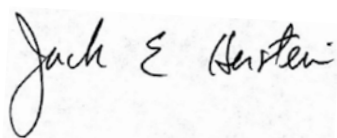

Our conference this year focuses on how to make the most of the regulatory changes facing all of us in the wake of new and long anticipated financial regulation and the upcoming presidential election.

I thank Conference Chair Irving Faught for developing an outstanding lineup of speakers and presentations to familiarize us with the changing landscape facing investors, regulators, and the financial services industry. I also want to thank my colleagues for your support and advice during the past year, including the members of NASAA's Board of Directors, our Section chairs, all who led or served on project groups, and the Corporate Office staff.

This past year was one of accomplishment for NASAA members who have worked diligently to ensure a smooth switch from federal to state regulation for investment advisers with assets under management of less than $100 million. This year was not, however, without its challenges, especially from those who sought to weaken and attack the regulatory authority of NASAA members. Throughout it all, NASAA members continued to serve as the voice for Main Street investors and their protection.

I would like to close with a word of appreciation to all NASAA members throughout North America for your work in advancing NASAA's mission of protecting investors. I've been in public service for three-plus decades now. Each day I appreciate the opportunity my career choice has given me to make a difference and to help people in need. I'm sure you know what I mean, or you would not be here. You are doing great work and I want you to know that your efforts are greatly appreciated. Thank you for your dedication, and I hope you enjoy the conference.

Sincerely,

Jack E. Herstein

NASAA President and Assistant Director of the Nebraska Department of Banking & Finance, Bureau of Securities

Panel One: Occupy Regulation

In the more than two years since its passage, the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act has sparked an intense national discussion over the impact of regulation on investor protection and economic growth. While the debate rages, many of the key provisions of Dodd-Frank have stalled in the rulemaking process, leaving many to ask whether Washington seeks to protect the interests of Wall Street or Main Street. A panel of securities experts and reform advocates will look at the progress and impediments facing the Dodd-Frank Act at its two year anniversary focusing on the fate of the Volcker Rule, the SEC's long-awaited rule on fiduciary duty and the growing role of cost-benefit analysis in the Dodd-Frank rulemaking process.

Corporation Finance Section Forum

The Corporation Finance Section will host an open forum to discuss recent corporate finance developments. While some time will be spent on an update of the activities of the Corporation Finance Section and associated project groups, a majority of the agenda will be dedicated to an open discussion of issues among practitioners and state regulators. Potential items for discussion include the JOBS Act and its implications for investors and current issues in applications for state registration. Please come prepared to exchange ideas and discuss issues that you find important.

3:45 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Sea Breeze Room, California Cabanas Building

Broker-Dealer Section Forum

The Broker-Dealer Section will host a forum to discuss issues of common interest to the states and the regulated community. The section and project group members will provide an update of their activities over the past year and will discuss many of the priorities that the section expects to focus on in the upcoming year. Topics of discussion will include results from the broker-dealer examination sweep, and other topics related to the efforts of the section and its project groups. As in past years, the forum will include an open discussion, questions and answers, and lively interaction involving participants from NASAA, the securities industry, and the bar.

Investor Education Section Forum

The Investor Education Section will host an open forum showcasing project groups and their innovative, interactive and collaborative approach to investor education. The forum will discuss new ways to reach Native American investors in North America, working with key stakeholders in protecting and educating investors, supporting investor education coordinators as they explore program delivery over new social media channels, and promoting NASAA programs to members. The section is focused on providing resources and support in ways that encourage creative delivery and effective engagement with local investors in each jurisdiction. The section members extend an open invitation to all conference attendees to participate in an engaging, exciting and interactive forum. We look forward to seeing you there!

Investment Adviser Section Forum

The Investment Adviser Section will host an open forum to discuss the activities of the section and project groups, as well as current regulatory issues facing advisers. From the switch to state registration of over 2,000 advisers, to the treatment of advisers to private funds and proposals regarding investment adviser oversight, there has never been more to discuss! The section extends a warm invitation to all conference attendees and encourages participation and questions. We look forward to a lively discussion and exchange of ideas related to issues facing the states and the regulated community.

3:30 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Sea Breeze Room, California Cabanas Building

Enforcement Section Forum

The Enforcement Section will host an open forum to discuss developments and trends in securities enforcement. Conference attendees are invited to ask questions, make comments and fully participate during this far-ranging discussion on exotic products, sales practice abuses, unregistered securities, fraud, and supervision and suitability cases. The forum also will address the impact of regulatory reform on enforcement efforts and cooperation among regulatory authorities.

Joint Web CRD/IARD Forum

In the past year, NASAA and its members applied extraordinary resources toward embracing the regulatory changes required under the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act. A panel will review the latest information on these activities, including the implementation of Form ADV amendments to accommodate both the increase in the assets under management threshold and changes to private fund adviser regulation, the use of the amended Form ADV in the IARD system to accomplish the “Switch” of investment advisers from SEC to state registration, and the establishment of filing and review procedures for state exempt reporting advisers. In addition, the panel will provide updates on IAPD and BrokerCheck enhancements implemented pursuant to near term recommendations under a Dodd-Frank study, proposed amendments to Form ADV Part 1B, routine system enhancements, and expungements. The panel also will review proposals for rule changes for which NASAA has filed comment letters and will report on other issues of interest relating to the registration of firms and individuals.
