Subject: [EXTERNAL]NASAA Franchise Broker Act Comments

Hello friends!

I have had the pleasure of working with franchise candidates since 2007, beginning my franchise career in franchise sales. In 2019, I transitioned to an independent franchise consultant with FranChoice, acting as a matchmaker for franchise candidates and franchisors. I have loved seeing people realize their dream and having a small piece of the process by introducing them to franchises to investigate.

I have a great deal of respect for the regulations that protect franchisees and franchisors. They are necessary and have created a mutually beneficial relationship between “zees” and “zors”. However, I have significant concerns regarding the proposed Franchise Broker Act.

The three main issues we want to touch on in the comments are:

1. FranChoice and its consultants are not involved in the franchise sales process – we are a lead source for franchise companies. We send them leads for prospective franchisees, which are then taken through a sales process by the franchise sales staff (whether internal employees or independent contractors like FSOs). As a lead source for franchise companies, just like internet advertising sites such as the IFA or Entrepreneur.com, or social media sites like Facebook and LinkedIn, or many other examples, we should not be covered in this definition of franchise sellers because that’s not what we do. The confusing language in this regulation, designed to label as a broker anyone who is “indirectly” involved in the franchise sales process needs to be changed or the unintended consequences will be significant.
2. As for people who are actually involved in the franchise sales process, this new regulation is unnecessary, burdensome, costly and duplicates rules and regulations already in place.
3. Advocating for individual states to create their own rules and fees related to this disclosure process unnecessarily creates confusion and hardship from a compliance standpoint. If we need more regulation of franchise sales brokers, it should be done by the FTC on a national basis.

Please feel free to add your own thoughts or put these issues into your own words. I've included some alternative verbiage samples relating to these points below for you to consider:

Overly Broad Definitions

The definition of "franchise broker" in the Act is far too broad and would capture individuals who simply make referrals or provide information, not those actually engaged in franchise sales. This would require countless business professionals to register unnecessarily.

Definition Problems

The current definition of "franchise broker" would inadvertently capture:

- Funding sources and lead generation services if paid by the franchisor
- Referral sources to the franchisor
- Professional service providers offering ancillary services

Due Process Concerns

The broad definition of "franchise broker" lacks the precision required for regulatory certainty. Business professionals need clear guidance about when registration is required to avoid inadvertent violations.

Excessive Regulatory Burden

The proposed registration requirements would create an overwhelming administrative burden for small operators like myself. The compliance costs alone could force many of us out of business, ultimately reducing the resources available to help prospective franchisees navigate their options.

Practical Concerns

The registration requirements are impractical for an industry where professionals often work with multiple brands across multiple states. The compliance costs and administrative burden would be prohibitive for many legitimate operators.

Existing Oversight

Current state and federal regulations already address the legitimate concerns raised about broker conduct. Additional layers of regulation create compliance burdens without corresponding consumer protection benefits.

Alternative Solutions

Rather than broad registration requirements, the industry would be better served by enforcement of existing laws against fraud and misrepresentation, along with education initiatives for prospective franchisees.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Best regards,

Jessica
